Dublin, Nov. 25. On Thursday Night last, as some Gentlemen passed by Mr. Philpot's, in Great Britain-street, they discovered the Hay-loft to be on Fire, and thereupon alarmed the Family, who alarmed the Neighbourhood, and by the timely Assistance of the Watch, and others who assembled on that Occasion, the Fire was happily extinguished before any Damage was done. An old Servant that lived some time ago with Mr. Philpot, who is suspected to be the Incendiary, is thereupon committed to Newgate.

On Saturday Night a Fire broke out in the Stables at the old Boot in Boot-lane, whereby near 400 Loads of Hay were burnt, or rendered so far useless, that the Loss to the poor Sufferers, is almost irreparable, tho' the other Damage done by the Fire is trivial, only the Stables being burnt, or tumbled down.

We have had violent Storms of Rain and Snow all the last Week, inasmuch that the Rivers are prodigiously risen, and the Waters so high in many Places, as to render the Passage dangerous; and on Sunday we had a violent Hurricane of Wind, attended with Rain, wherein the Penn Galley parted from her Anchors, and drove on the North Bull, but is likely to be got off without much Damage. A great Part of the Wall on Ormond Key was tumbled down by the Rapidity of the Torrent, occasioned by the Swelling of the Waters, and several Trees torn up by the Roots, by the Wind.

L O N D O N.

According to Letters from Vienna, M. Heyl, who was Privy Counsellor and Secretary of the Cabinet to Duke Charles Leopold of Mecklenburg, continues in strong Hold there, while Matters are preparing for his Trial. It has already appeared by Papers found upon him, that he opposed the Execution of the Emperor's Orders, and that he encouraged the Duke his Master to contradict his Imperial Majesty's Intentions; nor are there Proofs wanting that he despised the Letters which the Emperor sent to that Prince, and spoke of them in the most indecent Terms. When he was examined as to these Articles, he made Answer, among other Things, That all his Crime was having acted with too much Zeal for the Interests of the Duke of Mecklenburg. He is also accused of having put it into that Prince's Head to go to France; yet many Persons think that the Emperor will be so favourable to this Counsellor, as to mitigate the Punishment due to his Guilt.

They write from Bretagne, that there has been a Riot at Nantes, upon this Occasion: There being an Order put up at the Exchange, forbidding the Watermen to come there, while the Merchants are assembled, the Watermen forced their Way in, tore down the said Order, and insulted the Merchants. For this several of the Rioters were apprehended, in order to have exemplary Punishment; but the Populace opposed it with Violence, and rescued one of the Criminals; and it was believed the Affair will be attended with yet worse Consequences. — This is the City where that famous Edict was passed in favour of the French Protestants, by Henry IV. in 1598, and afterwards made irrevocable by Parliament, and ratified by Lewis XIII. but ungratefully repealed by Lewis XIV. in 1685, contrary to all his Oaths and Promises, and to the Obligations he owed to the Protestants, who set the Crown on the Heads of his Predecessors, and kept it on his own. The Tide which flows up the River Loire, two Leagues above the Town, brings considerable Vessels up to its Harbour.

Letters from Berlin extol his Prussian Majesty's late Goodness to the Protestants, of which they mention these particular Instances; his founding a Church for the new Colony of Bohemians at Frederickstadt; his granting Protection to the said Colony; and his Order for distributing 150,000 Rixdollars to the Protestants of Prussia, and that Part of Lithuania which is annexed to it, for the Support of their Churches and Schools. They add, that the Ceremony of laying the first Stone of the Bohemians Church was performed in the Presence of Lieutenant-General de Glasnap, the Commandant at Berlin, and the Privy Counsellor Hezold, as Directors of the new Bohemian Colony; that a fine Inscription was put upon the Foundation-Stone, with several Medals of Gold and Silver; and that the said Colony, which is already increased to 600 Persons, went in Procession to the Place, where their Minister made an excellent Discourse, in which he did not forget to thank the King in the most grateful Terms, for his gracious Bounty and Protection.

But after hearing several Witnesses on both Sides, the Jury gave a Verdict for the Defendant.

Advertisements concerning this Book

This Masterpiece of religious Policy was published, many Years since, in Latin, French, and Dutch: Mr. John Schipper, a Bookfeller at Amsterdam, bought one of them at Auction among other Books, and afterwards reprinted it. The Jesuits, being informed that he had purchased this Book, demanded it back from him; but he had then sent it to Holland. One of the Society, who lived at Amsterdam, hearing it said, sent after, to a Catholick Bookfeller, by Name Van Eyke, that Schipper was printing a Book which concerned the Jesuits, replied, that if it was only The Rules of the Society, he should not be under any Concern; but desired he would inform himself what it was. Being told by the Bookfeller, that it was The Secret Instructions of the Society, the good Father, throwing up his Shoulders, and knitting his Brow, said, that he saw no other Remedy but denying that this Piece came from the Society. The Reverend Fathers however thought it more advisable to purchase the whole Edition, which they had after did, some few Copies excepted; from one of these it was afterwards reprinted, with this Account prefixed, which is there said to be taken from two Roman Catholics, Men of Credit.
